CCQ Member Biography

Name	Bev Agler
Occupation	Fisheries Biologist
How might people in the community know you?	People might know Bev because she is part of the bird watching community, she is in the quilt guild and she has “wild hair” – pink, purple, green.

Quilting Background

When did you begin quilting and why?	Bev started quilting in 1996 – mostly because she got sick and couldn't leave her house. She took a class – and sort of got hooked. She made that quilt 4-5 times and learned paper piecing.
How do you like to express yourself through quilting?	Bev does “everything”. She began with traditional piecing – following a pattern – and changing it up. She does Art and Modern Quilts these days, paying attention to all three parts – the front, back and quilting.
What do you do with your quilts?	Bev gives most of her quilts away. She's sold a few and has one on her bed.
Describe your first quilt and when you made it?	Bev's first quilt was a Bargello by the block, done in purple and teals. (She gave it away.)

This is an example of a Bargello quilt
